

One-Text Negotiation Tool Peace & Dialogue Platform (CC)

The one-text process is a systematic, collaborative, multi-stakeholder approach to negotiations, technical task groups, national dialogues and constitution-making. This approach allows parties in a negotiation to collectively explore common ground, identify their difference, generate options, work towards consensus-building, and finally agree on a single text. This process is called one-text because literally one text is drawn from stakeholders' perspectives and identified common ground.

The One-Text Negotiations Tool facilitates the development of a "One Text" document allowing stakeholders to track their respective positions, identify common ground, note their differences and pave the way to the generation of options.
